Tips on Securing an Internship for Class Credit

Internships are essential to help develop a student's professional career prior to entering the workforce. The B.I. Moody III College of Business Administration Internship program offers resources for students to get involved in numerous business industry sectors while gaining class credit. Still, students often wonder how to get an internship.

With the help of Dr. Brandi Guidry-

1. Prepare a Resume: Check out the Office of Career Services' templates here!

2. Find your ideal Internship: Browse open positions on Handshake.

3. Complete the student internship application: found here; it must be submitted by the semester deadline in person (Moody 204) or by email (internships@louisiana.edu)

4. Meet with Faculty Advisor: to obtain approval

5. Get Class Credit: It's like a two-for-one special!

Hollier and Chase Demoran, we curated a list of 5 essential processes to help students earn class credit while gaining real-world experience from their internship!

Lastly, remember that MCOBA faculty and staff are here for you! Visit the internship office, during their office hours found below, in Moody Room 204 for help answering your questions, or click the link below.

MARCH RECAP

Moody Business Week

The Student Government Association in the College of Business invited students, faculty, and visitors to participate in Moody Business Week. Events allowed individuals to network with businesses, further career development, and expand etiquette knowledge. Thanks to all the participating panelists & businesses for speaking to students and participating in all of the events! For more information, contact SGA President Sam Stonecipher at sgacobapresident@louisiana.edu.

Women's Leadership Conference

Dr. Patricia Lanier, Dr. Lise Anne Slatten, and Dr. Leigh Hersey (UL Monroe) presented "Expanding Women Take FLIGHT" at the 2023 Women's Leadership Conference. FLIGHT is an acronym that represents their mission of Fostering Leadership to Increase Growth in Higher-ed Teams. The program is currently being funded by a Board of Regents grant at UL Monroe. A new grant request was recently submitted by ULM requesting funding to expand the program to UL Lafayette. For more information, contact Dr. Lise Anne Slatten at lise.slatten@louisiana.edu.

MBAA Crawfish Boil

Graduate students, faculty, and staff enjoyed a networking crawfish boil tailgate on March 4th, followed by cheering on the Ragin Cajuns Baseball Team at Russo Park. Allons Cajuns! The crawfish boil was sponsored and hosted by the MBA Association. For more information or to join MBAA, contact Kristen

Tanner at kristen.tanner1@louisiana.edu.

B.I. Moody College of Business Administration recognized by Princeton Review

Why participate in the MCOBA Internship Program?

Student Internship Feature

Kristin Lanoue, Junior: Accounting Major

While working at Singleton, Kellner, Bolding, Avant, & Associates, I've gotten so much hands on experience with the information I'm learning in my classes. Having this internship has helped me realize accounting is the right field for me. I highly recommend participating in the Internship Program to gain that experience that could truly influence your future career.

If you would like to share your internship experience please contact Chase Demoran by email at internship@louisiana.edu.
